

BEFORE THE TRAILOR TRAINING TEST

In order to book the test, you'll need the following information to hand:

- A valid GB or NI (Northern Ireland) driving licence number
- The length of the vehicle and trailer that you will be using
- A valid debit or credit card for payment
- Your surname and date of birth

You can also apply by post via an application form which you may download from the DSA website or pick up from your local test centre. You will need to enclose a cheque for the full amount or provide debit or credit card details with the form.

AREAS TO PRACTICE

The towing trailer test is as much about making sure you are fully aware of how to operate a trailer as is testing your ability to drive while towing.

The following list highlights some of the areas you need to make sure you are able to demonstrate before taking the test:

Before setting off:

- Checking the trailer (wheels, tyres, windows and exterior lockers closed) before setting off.
- Hitching & ensuring the breakaway cable is in good order.
- Checking that the rear lights, break lights and indicators are in working order once hitched.

WHAT TO TAKE TO YOUR TEST

When reporting for your test, it is essential that you bring the following items with you. Failure to do so or outdated documentation may result in the DSA (Driving Standards Agency) refusing to allow you to take the test at the allotted time, and could mean you lose your test fee:

- A vehicle suitable for the test, displaying L plates to the front and rear, appropriately insured and licensed.
- The appointment letter sent to you when you booked your test.
- Both parts of your photo card driving license (unless you hold an old-style paper license, in which case you'll need to take your signed drivers' license and a valid passport).
